Ballot Total Not Expected To Top 40,000

Normal Turnout of Voters Anticipated on Election Day

Columbiana County can expect a normal voter turnout of not over 40,000 at the general election Tuesday, Frank R. O'Hanlon, veteran clerk of the County Election Board at East Liverpool, predicted today.

Growing interest in the heated gubernatorial contest between Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic incumbent, and State Auditor James A. Rhodes, the Republican nominee is expected to swell the voting, O'Hanlon said.

One unknown factor is election day weather. A particularly cold or wet day sometimes is blamed for keeping some prospective voters at home.

Columbiana County cast 39,837 votes at the last comparable election in 1958. In 1960, when interest was swelled by a presidential election, the turnout hit 48,879.

The 165 precinct polling places throughout Columbiana County will open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m.

2 Courthouse Contests

In a so-called "short ballot" election, the county will settle races for only two Courthouse posts and elect a state representative.

A Common Pleas Court judgeship will be filled in an uncontested race and two county court judges will be named.

Twenty-six special questions and issues are at stake throughout the county, principally proposed city, township and school district tax levies. In addition, every voter will act on a proposed amendment to the Ohio Constitution designating certain items for sale on Sundays and a levy of seven-tenths mill for support of the County Home.

The races for the Courthouse posts are expected to attract the most voter interest in the off-year election.

In both instances, incumbent Democrats are running for second terms against Republican nominees.

They are Commissioner Frank C. Wilson and Auditor Kenneth Bell, both Wellsville residents.

Their GOP opponents are James W. Boyd of East Liverpool, nominee for commissioner, and T. Emerson Smith of Salem, picked by his party in the May primaries to run for auditor.

Boyd is operator of a lumber company at Glenmoor and Smith is a salesman for a dairy concern and a former member of the County Election Board.

The two hold - over commissioners both are Republicans. They are Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine and Galen Greenisen of near Salem.

A third Courthouse post will be filled without a contest. Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard of East Liverpool is assured of re-election because he has no opponent on the non-partisan judicial ballot.

He was nominated without opposition on the GOP ticket at the primary. The hold - over member of the county bench is Judge Joel H. Sharp of Salem, also a Republican.

The county's seat in the State House of Representatives will be filled in the race between Rep. Turn to VOTERS, Page 8

CHILD MAIMED — Two-year-old Sonja Peterson tearfully sits in a hospital crib, her right arm heavily bandaged, after her right hand was cut off. Her father, Marlin Peterson, 27, is accused of maiming his daughter with a knife on Oct. 6. Peterson is being held in a St. Paul, Minn., jail after admitting the act was intentional and that he had a mental complex on such matters.

First Load of U.S. Arms Reaches India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Chinese forces continued to advance near Demchok at the southern end of the Ladakh battlefield, informed sources reported today, as the first plane loads of American weapons arrived to bolster the hard-pressed Indian army.

U.S. Ambassador John K. Galbraith warned Indians not to expect magic results from American weapons before the first two U.S. C135 transports landed at Calcutta with automatic rifles, mortars and anti-personnel mines from Germany.

His words were emphasized by the reports of the continued Chinese advance around Demchok in Ladakh at the western end of the frontier.

The Chinese, by their latest reported advances, virtually completed the occupation of all the disputed territory in Ladakh. The Chinese took the village of Demchok about a week ago.

The defense ministry spokesman at a daily briefing said he had nothing to report.

The new U.S. weapons were sent immediately toward camps just behind the front in the northeastern sector where Indian troops have been driven back in the mountains protecting the Assam plains.

A steady stream of U.S. jet transports, arriving one every three hours, will continue the arms buildup. Heavier equipment, such as tanks, is expected by ship in a few weeks.

A shipment of Canadian guns also is expected soon.

A letter from Premier Khrushchev delivered to Prime Minister Nehru Friday was said by informed sources to give no hope that the Soviet Union would be able to restrain the Chinese offensive at 13 points along India's border.

The informants said this deepened disillusionment that came the same day the Chinese attacked, Oct. 20. A letter from Khrushchev that day supported the Chinese territorial claims, the sources said, though the Soviet press did not disclose Moscow's stand until several days later.

U.S., Russia To Confer On Inspection Terms

U Thant Seeks Red Cross OK On Inspection

U.N. Asks Mercy Group To Check Cuba-Bound Vessels

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant seeks Red Cross approval this weekend of a Soviet plan to let the international mercy group inspect Cuba-bound Russian ships for arms.

The United States and the Soviet Union were reported near agreement on the plan, which is aimed at lifting the U.S. naval arms blockade of Cuba. But the Red Cross has not yet given its final consent to assume the delicate role.

President Kennedy said in a broadcast Friday night that the Red Cross would be an appropriate agency for the task under which inspectors reportedly would be stationed on ships chartered by the Red Cross or the U.N.

Informed sources said the Red Cross would send a high official here today or Sunday to go over the details with Thant. The international agency is said to have given tentative approval on grounds that as a humanitarian organization it could inspect incoming ships to make sure that needed food and medicines were getting through to Cuba.

The United States also had considered the possibility of asking the Red Cross to check Soviet ships leaving Cuba to make sure the missiles were being shipped out as promised by Premier Khrushchev. But this idea apparently was dropped.

A spokesman for Thant said the secretary-general had been informed that it would take about 10 days for Soviet ships to arrive in Cuba to pick up the dismantled missiles and ship them back to the Soviet Union.

The United States has said it still insists on international inspection to make sure the missiles have been pulled out. This would seem to require on-the-spot checks, since that is the only certain method.

U.S. circles here appeared confident, however, that an over-all solution to the crisis would be reached. They were said to be hopeful that First Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, Khrushchev's ace troubleshooter who arrived in Havana Friday night, can persuade Prime Minister Fidel Castro to relax his adamant stand against inspection on Cuban soil to verify withdrawal of the rocket.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told newsmen after conferring again with Thant that the United States was making progress in negotiations with the Soviet Union to resolve the crisis.

One Dead, Two Hurt In Crash

Canfield Woman Is Traffic Victim

A 58-year-old Canfield woman was killed and three other persons were injured in a truck-auto collision Friday afternoon at 4:45 in Boardman Township.

Mrs. Grace Sponseller of 224 11th St. was dead of internal injuries and a fractured skull upon arrival at South Side Hospital, Youngstown.

The victim was a passenger in a car driven by Kathryn Beadel, 16, a next door neighbor of Mrs. Sponseller's.

Miss Beadel is in serious condition at South Side Hospital with possible head injuries and multiple abrasions and her mother, Mrs. Caroline Stratford, 46, is listed as "fair" with possible head injuries and internal injuries.

Leland Gruber, 42, of Youngstown, driver of the Ward Baking Co. truck that collided with the Canfield auto, suffered minor scalp, body and hip injuries.

The Canfield post of the State Highway Patrol reported that Miss Beadel, traveling west on Shields Rd., stopped for a stop sign, but pulled her car into the path of Gruber's truck, going north on State Route 625. The crash intersection is two miles south of the Youngstown city limits.

Both the dead woman and Mrs. Stratford worked in the Blue Cross offices in Youngstown and Miss Beadel, a junior at Canfield High School, was returning her mother and neighbor to their Canfield homes from their work when the accident occurred.

The accident is still under investigation by the State Patrol. Miss Beadel and her mother, riding in the rear seat, were

Mikoyan Greeted Warmly by Castro

HAVANA (AP)—A warm bear hug from Fidel Castro welcomed Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to Havana Friday at the start of his fence-mending mission in the wake of the Soviet decision to pull its missiles out of Cuba.

Russia's chief troubleshooter and the Cuban prime minister drove off from the airport together in a black U.S.-made Cadillac and reportedly got right down to a discussion of the discrepancies that Castro said had arisen between his government and its friends in the Kremlin.

Neither man made any statement to newsmen, but they talked together for more than five minutes at the foot of the airliner steps in full view of the welcoming party.

Mikoyan's visit is seen as a strong Soviet bid to reassure Castro of Communist support despite Premier Khrushchev's decision to withdraw the Soviet missiles.

Before leaving New York Mikoyan endorsed Castro's five demands against the United States, including the evacuation of the Guantanamo Naval Base, as conditions for Cuban settlement.

But New York sources expected Mikoyan to press Castro to admit international inspectors to examine the missile sites, in accordance with Khrushchev's agreement with Kennedy.

Before Mikoyan's arrival Castro warned the Cuban people to refrain from passing any rash judgments on the recent events in the Caribbean.

He said that "discrepancies" between him and Khrushchev would be discussed "at the government level."

No program for Mikoyan's visit was announced and no date of departure has been set.

Heavy ground fire met the attacking helicopters when they arrived for an operation this morning. A large Viet Cong unit was believed involved.

There was heavy contact in the same area Friday when an estimated 51 guerrillas were killed in a series of small actions.

The helicopter in which the crewman was hit was seriously damaged, and was able to continue flying. There were no initial reports of the result of ground action, and it was not known whether there were enemy casualties.

Alliance Driver Hurt In Accident

Erwin Smith, 25, of Buck Rd., RD 5, Alliance, is listed in "fairly good" condition at Alliance City Hospital following a one - car accident Friday night at 6:20 on the Alliance-Homeworth Rd. east of Alliance.

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol said Smith's car went off the east side of the highway, returned to the pavement and struck a mailbox. The auto then continued across the road, leaped into a field and struck a utility pole. The driver suffered a possible brain concussion and broken breastbone, lacerations of the chin, lip and chest, and contusions and lacerations of both knees.

An investigation is underway by the State Patrol.

U.N. Officials Say Agreement Is Expected

International Red Cross May Be Asked To Aid In Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported ready today to enter into special international inspection arrangements to clear ships through the U.S. naval blockade, and thus apparently speed removal of Soviet missiles from Cuba.

An agreement — which U.N. sources reported to be near — to have the International Red Cross inspect Cuba-bound ships could clear away a roadblock and hasten arrival of Soviet ships to pick up the missiles and haul them home.

Kennedy told the nation in a brisk two-minute television and radio broadcast Friday night that aerial photographs made Thursday show that the Russians were tearing down their missile bases in Cuba.

But the President declared the tight U.S. sea and air surveillance of Cuba would be maintained until satisfactory international inspection procedures are substituted or until "the threat to peace posed by these offensive weapons is gone."

While the quarantine remains in effect," the President said, "we are hopeful that adequate procedures can be developed for international inspection of Cuba-bound cargoes. The International Committee of the Red Cross, in our view, would be an appropriate agent in this matter."

U.S. and Soviet officials were reported to be near an agreement

Hanoverton Council Is Urged to Act

HANOVERTON — About 200 townspeople attending a mass meeting at the fire station Friday evening asked Village Council to conduct an investigation into recent burglaries here and to take possible action against any village employee who might be involved.

The citizens drafted a petition calling on Mayor Howard Hart to call a special session of Council. Council, however, meets Monday night in regular session.

Last night's citizens meeting, which lasted two hours, was conducted by Rev. Alonzo Wise, pastor of the First Christian Church, and Rev. John Horter of the First Presbyterian Church. Three members of the Council who were present were asked to leave because it was felt their presence might influence their future actions.

Columbiana County Assistant Prosecutor Joseph Barozzi has been investigating an Oct. 21 burglary at the Donald Bailey home which involved a 13-year-old boy and another boy, aged 8, and possibly an adult. The older boy who admitted the theft of jewelry, old coins and two wrist watches, has been turned over to the county welfare department by Probate Judge Louis Tobin. The judge remanded the younger boy to his parents.

4 Held to Grand Jury In District Burglaries

Pleas of guilty to several charges of burglary were entered by a Salem man and three others from RD 4 in preliminary hearings Friday in Mahoning County.

Bound to the Mahoning County grand jury for the series of thefts were Jesse Rufener, 20, of 189 W. 14th St., Salem, Dan Leyman, 28; his brother, Ted, 19; and their neighbor, James Baird, 18, all of Western Reserve Rd.

The Leymans and Baird in Mahoning County Judge Bruce R. Black's court at Sebring pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering Ferguson's Fruit Market on Route 62 north of Salem on Oct. 22. They took cigarettes, candy, baked goods and an electric drill.

Ted Leyman, Baird and Rufener entered guilty pleas to two other October burglaries which were mysteries to the Mahoning County sheriff's office until the Salem men were arrested.

The three confessed to a charge of malicious entry of the Ted Mesner coal mine on Route 45 in Ellsworth Township and breaking and entering the Ellsworth School for the purpose of stealing.

The burglaries on Oct. 11 netted the trio only minor loot, including 23 gallons of gasoline and five quarts of oil at the mine and a wrist watch, ballpoint pens, chocolate milk and other lesser items at the school.

BAROSIN with Zechariah and Micah

By HAROLD SHEEHAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW ORK — (NEA) — Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Barosin did not date to make a sound, take a step nor open a window in their hiding place above the one-room schoolhouse. The children below might have heard the noise, and the Germans might have learned that two Jews lived in the French mountain village.

This was their hideaway for three months during 1943. It was one of many uneasy sanctuaries in an 11-year journey to freedom for this Latvian-born artist and his wife.

"That place was bad. Every week 950 men were picked out of the barracks. They were sent to Auschwitz for gassing. I watched this for five weeks. My name was never called, largely, I think, because I had served in the French Army."

"I was then transported to another camp where I planted onions every day. I took a gamble—What did I have to lose?—I forged a leave pass and went into hiding with my wife."

"It was then that Pastor Andre Gall, an Evangelical Reformed minister, helped us. He shared his bread ration with us, got us to safety, and risked his own neck to aid Jewish fugitives."

"During those months above the school classroom we could not make a move. So we just sat still and read the Bible, day after day."

"Nevertheless, the word of our existence finally got out, so we were smuggled to Paris to live with my cousin's wife—who happens to be Catholic."

"I'll never forget the first time we saw a Jeep in front of the house. A tall, heavy-set soldier was sitting in the driver's seat. We figured he was an American because his face was entirely red—from lipstick."

Now living in New York with his wife, Barosin devoted a year and a half of his painting career to the creation of 18 eight-foot-high canvases depicting prophets from the Old Testament.

Executed in bold colors, the dramatic figures each seem to act out a specific episode in their lives—as related in the Bible. The paintings are set prominently in the street level of the Bible Society's offices.

"I did them because I wanted to do something for those of other faiths who helped us so much," said Barosin.

"If it were not for Pastor Gall and the rest, I would not be painting today."

THE CHURCH WITH A GLAD HAND AND A GREAT HEART.
Harold W. Deitch, Pastor

LUTHERANS BELIEVE...
They are members of the holy catholic church.

Immediately, three words need defining.

First, the word church. It comes from a Greek word, ecclesia, meaning "called out." This word was used by the ancient Greeks to apply to the citizens who were "called out" of the masses to serve on their legislative bodies. The word was picked up by the early Christians and applied to those "called out" of the masses to believe in Jesus Christ. So, Lutherans, since they believe in Jesus Christ as Lord, are members of the church.

Secondly, the word catholic. It means universal and inner wholeness. Lutherans believe they are catholic because they are a part of the universal church and, further, they enjoy an inner wholeness—through Jesus Christ—with all of Christendom.

Consequently, Lutherans, along with Ignatius, believe "wherever Jesus Christ is, there is the Catholic Church." That includes Lutherans.

Thirdly, the word holy. This word means "to be set apart for a special service." Undoubtedly, the church has been set apart for a special service to God and man, namely, the proclamation of the Gospel and the administration of the sacraments.

Since the Lutheran Church does exactly that, it is a part of the holy catholic church.

Plea Made for Gifts For Boys In Institution

A plea by the staff of the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster has been sent to juvenile courts, civic and service clubs, social and welfare groups, and various religious organizations, requesting assistance in providing a meaningful Christmas season for the boys in the school.

Supt. T. L. Fultz said contributions made by individuals and groups from the boys' home communities have helped immeasurably in changing the negative attitude of the boys to one of hope, and oftentimes engenders in them a determination to become worthwhile citizens.

Columbiana County has three boys in the institution.

A list of suitable gifts can be secured from the juvenile court in Lisbon. Cash donations are also sought.

DiSalle's Home Town Newspaper THE BLADE OF TOLEDO

One of America's Great Newspapers and Other Leading Ohio Newspapers Endorse JAMES A. RHODES for GOVERNOR and Insist It's

TIME FOR A CHANGE!

Of all Ohio newspapers, The Blade knows Michael V. DiSalle best... it has supported him consistently throughout his political career... last Monday, Oct. 29, 1962, The Blade joined other leading Ohio Newspapers to urge the election of JAMES A. RHODES as the Governor of Ohio... and, here's why:

Ohio's Next Governor

DESPITE an unusually long campaign, the race for governor has been anything but earth shaking. The two candidates have launched so many dazzling programs that they have obscured the issues.

And having served so long in public office, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and State Auditor James A. Rhodes are too well known to create excitement about their individual personalities. Yet the personal approach used by Ohio's next governor is bound to be all-important as he and the Legislature come to grips with critical state problems during the next four years. For this reason, The Blade endorses Mr. Rhodes.

LOOKING BACK on the past four years and the record of the DiSalle administration, we are struck by the extent to which the governor's personality and individual characteristics had a decisive and lamentable impact on state government.

The DiSalle era has been one of ferment. Advances were made, only to be disrupted by turmoil and deadlock. The chief executive developed into a virtual one-man government. He got bogged down in detailed housekeeping chores and petty feuds while losing his capacity for effective political leadership.

We feel certain that Mike DiSalle had the best interests of Ohio at heart. He recognized and called public attention to long neglected state needs. And when he tried to get them taken care of despite public jeers and protests against the cost, the Blade supported his efforts.

In fact, we have supported him all his life until now. We soared in his pride when he went to Columbus as the first governor from Toledo. But after a while we could hardly recognize him.

Something happened to the Mike DiSalle Toledoans knew and respected as state legislator, councilman, vice mayor, mayor, and U. S. price stabilizer. He not only lost his sense of humor; his self-evaluation skyrocketed. Old friends got the brush-off. He seemed to go out of his way to sever all his old ties.

Unwilling to accept outside help or advice, and unable to work with key leaders of his own party, he turned increasingly to a retinue of mediocre administrators and yes men.

Admittedly, his problems ballooned when Republicans took over the General Assembly after a bitter election campaign in 1960 — when he was accused of raising taxes unnecessarily. But personal campaign charges are scarcely new in politics. And for a veteran politician, the governor grew unusually thin-skinned and defensive.

During the past two years he seemed more intent on revenge than accomplishment. He went out of his way to pick on veteran leaders of both parties. Yet this was when the governor needed the support of Republicans as well as Democrats to get any of his programs adopted.

It is one thing to try; another to succeed. And under the emotional boobytraps he set for himself, Mike's frantic efforts were doomed.

IN ADDITION to alienating lawmakers, he also succeeded in disillusioning many voters. Most people respected his moral opposition to capital punishment until he started gunshoeing around the state on so many death-penalty cases. The truth serum fiasco in the Klumpke Case bordered on interference with judicial processes and brought about a popular outcry.

In another key phase of his administration — appointments — the governor's one-man show handicapped him even more. With no strong team of top leaders to help recruit outstanding citizens to serve on state boards and commissions, or take charge of agencies and departments, he saddled the state with too many pedestrian officeholders.

As a political manipulator, Mike DiSalle has had few peers in the technique of meeting himself coming around a corner. As governor, however, he really out-manuevered himself.

First, there was his coy attempt to become a key factor in the 1960 Democratic presidential convention by running as Ohio's favorite son. Despite the growth of Kennedy support throughout the state, Mike held out — crossing up his own Lucas County party chairman, John Kelly — until Mr. Kennedy called his hand during their showdown meeting in Pittsburgh. Then the governor belatedly announced that he and his delegates would support Mr. Kennedy.

When Richard Nixon and the Republicans carried Ohio, the DiSalle administration seemed to be in the Kennedy doghouse, and difficulties multiplied in Columbus. Then, after the legislative stalemate cast an even gloomier spell over the future, came the governor's dramatic withdrawal.

Mike was not going to run for re-election. But he couldn't stand being on the sidelines very long, either. And, in typical fashion, waiting until Attorney General McElroy had gone all-out for the nomination, the governor jumped back into the fray with a decisive primary campaign that further split his party.

Most recently, he again waited until the last minute to toss mud at Mr. Rhodes. If, as he indicated, the governor's information grew out of incidents in earlier years of Jim Rhodes' office-holding, it seems odd that a candidate under public scrutiny for 18 years would not be called to account until the last few weeks.

The governor first hinted at his "$54,000 question" months ago. Why did he wait until the closing phase of the campaign to air his charges?

Finally, by trying to interest the press in distasteful allegations about Mr. Rhodes' early life and family history with innuendoes — only a small part of which any newspaper could print — the governor sank to the depths of political campaigning.

Under these handicaps, the chances of effective state government with another four years under Mike DiSalle are dim indeed. Add to these drawbacks the unlikelihood that the Democrats can regain control of the General Assembly, and the outlook becomes even dimmer.

Although many Americans may prefer the competitive protection of a governor representing one party and the legislature the other, Mike showed that he cannot work that way. He tried to take on 177 legislators and lost.

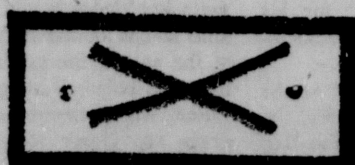

Ohioans have only to recall what happened in Michigan during the long and disastrous power struggle between former Gov. Williams and the Republican legislature to realize they cannot afford continued feuding and stalemate in Columbus.

IN MR. RHODES, veteran state auditor and former mayor of Columbus, the Republicans offer an alternative candidate who has been an effective public administrator for almost two decades. The personal following he developed during that time demonstrates a real talent for organization.

He should be able to get along well with a Legislature almost certain to be controlled by Republicans. That is essential. The state also needs a chief executive who can attract and develop top administrators.

In short, Ohio must have a governor during the next four years who can actually get things done. Mr. Rhodes offers the only prospect.

On November 6, Go to the Polls with a Purpose...

One Way to Avoid Trouble

President Kennedy's "quarantine" of Cuba caused us to do a little reflecting.

It went back to John Foster Dulles and the 1960 presidential campaign when Democrats were howling about the Eisenhower administration's "brink of war" foreign policy.

How much closer to the "brink" can we get than the Cuban situation?

In a Life Magazine interview in January 1956, Secretary of State Dulles had said: "If you cannot master it, you inevitably get into war. If you try to run away from it, if you are scared to go to the brink, you are lost."

Democrats howled about "brinkmanship." In April 1957 Secretary Dulles made a speech to the Associated Press meeting in New York about "dynamic peace" that agitated them even more. They rang all the changes on this in the 1960 campaign.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES was right. President Kennedy's "brinkmanship" in the Cuban situation saved the day. We hope he doesn't chicken out.

We think most of the American people agreed with Mr. Dulles in 1956 and their point of view is only now coming into favor among disenchanted "liberals" who thought the late Franklin D. Roosevelt had "housebroken" Stalin and who had wanted to think until lately that Khrushchev was born with the proper instincts.

Communists will push the free world as far as they can without actually getting into war so long as we don't complain about being pushed.

It will be only to the extent that we push back that their expansionism will be contained. Communists are utterly realistic about these things.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and Secretary of State Dulles knew how Communist strategy worked. The Kennedy administration seems to have caught on too belatedly, more than half way to meet it.

If John Foster Dulles was making statements on this same subject today he could say what he said in 1956 and again in 1957 without raising a stir of dissent.

This time the whole country would say, "Amen." His clear-eyed, hard-headed view of foreign policy has been vindicated.

There is only one way to avoid trouble. Go more than half way to meet it.

Three G's of Disenchantment

It is strange that Russian Marxists ever are taken at their word in a country whose farm boys are taught to keep an eye on billy goats and whose city boys are made to count their change.

Here we are again in a national rage because Premier Khrushchev now is offering to swap a missile base in Cuba that Russia's foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko told President Kennedy didn't exist for a U.S. missile base in Turkey.

Americans are as shocked by this duplicity as they were in 1960 when they learned about their own government's duplicity in the U2 incident. All this in a country that invented the pickoff play in baseball, the sleight-of-hand T quarterback in football and the feint in boxing.

Russians do not tell the truth when they are trying to make suckers of the opposition. More than any other modern nation, the Soviet Union uses falsehood systematically against its rivals. Naturally, it denied the existence of offensive weapons in Cuba until President Kennedy turned the lie against it. That was the game.

It held to the lie until Premier Khrushchev was ready to offer to withdraw nuclear weapons in Cuba if the United States would withdraw nuclear weapons in Turkey. Many people had anticipated such an offer. As cynically they even question the authenticity of the Cuban bases, which conceivably could be mockups for no purpose other than to be seen by the camera eyes of the U2 planes that have been taking pictures of them for the United States.

Russia's next move may be to let the United States "discover" missile bases in Siberia — on Russian soil. It then might offer to swap these for U.S. missile bases in Britain or perhaps in Greece. Such a swap would work as well if the bases were made of papier mache as if they were made of concrete and steel.

It would work as well, that is, if Americans continue to be gullible until they have been gulled and then act galled — the three G's of Yankee Doodle disenchantment.

It's hard to understand how a country once notorious for wooden nutmegs can retain such a remarkable capacity for being flabbergasted every time it rediscovers a fact that has been obvious for the last 100,000 years — that adversaries never speak the truth unless they have nothing further to gain by lying.

Come Tuesday, Vote

Next Tuesday's election constitutes off-year balloting because we do not choose a President but the election is just as important nevertheless.

In Salem the Republicans and Democrats have been joined by the League of Women Voters and Junior Chamber of Commerce in "know your candidates" and "get out the vote" campaigns to arouse voter interest. All have been doing an excellent job to remind us of the privilege of voting.

Tuesday's the day. Vote!

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: I keep wondering why you would ask me to comment on Cuba when you are up to your armpits in comments on Cuba, all by experts.

Two explanations come to mind. The first will make you sore, so I will mention it now and get it out of the way.

You want me to say something so you can kick it in the slates and try to make a fool of me. This is what a woman does when she asks her husband to comment on her new hat. This is why men who are smart enough to be married say, "It's charming, dear." They've learned not to snap at the bait.

I doubt, however, that you would try to make a fool of me at this late stage. It wouldn't be worth the effort. Among people who know me best there's no point in proving against what already has been demonstrated. I am a fool. I admit it.

My life brightened like a redecorated saloon after I was able to admit this to myself. Before that time, I was always afraid I would do something foolish and my secret would be out. Afterward, I had nothing to be afraid of. There was nothing to hide.

Instead of watching my tongue, I now can say what I think on all occasions, and if I inadvertently say something that makes sense, it's heart-warming to hear people mutter, "Hey, the old fool may not be such an old fool at that."

In all candor, dear relative, the difference between me and others who talk about Cuba is—candor. I admit I'm foolish. They're still trying to keep their secret.

I have only one comment to make on Cuba. We muffed our chance there. We were the big birds in Cuba for more than half a century and were still sitting on the nest when Castro swooped down from the hills to take over the machinery of government in Havana. Out man Batista didn't have enough friends left by that time to put up a fight.

Experts tell me now they knew Castro was a communist all the time, but all I know is that he did not say he was a communist when he overthrew Batista. He was a revolutionist in a country ready for a revolution. That's all he needed to be. Cuba was a mess.

When you ask me to comment on Cuba I am too foolish to go along with the fashionable viewpoint that communism is to blame. Communism is a result in Cuba, not a cause.

It is like someone who catches a terrible disease because his physical resistance has been lowered by a common cold. Insofar as the United States owed it to itself to make Cuba a sound working example of the merit of the American way of life, the outcome of the experiment there is a disgrace.

It makes no sense to blame everything on Castro and the unmentionable communists who made ideological capital of our failure to sell enough Cubans on our way of doing things. Being foolish I remember that things were darned sour in Cuba before Castro—so darned sour they made Young Whiskers look like a liberator.

Regards to the family.

Country Could be Affected Four Ways by Elections

Four separate predictions as to the outcome of the congressional elections are being discussed in political circles. Each would have a different impact on the trend of American business.

David Lawrence
Democrats.

Second, Republicans could make small gains in the House of Representatives and perhaps even in the Senate.

Third, the Republicans could make substantial gains in both houses.

Fourth, the Democrats could increase their margin in both houses.

If there is virtually no change in the margin of the parties, business will be encouraged. It will mean that the existing coalition of conservative Democrats and Republicans in Congress will continue to restrain to a large extent the experimentalism and radicalism of the Democratic party's quasi-socialistic bloc. Business would be encouraged and stimulated.

If the Democrats increase their margin in both houses, business will be discouraged and there will be renewed talk of deflation and a possible recession in 1963, with more unemployment.

If the Republicans make small gains, business will receive its first big stimulus in the last two years.

Businessmen will feel that the stronger coalition of Republicans and Democrats in Congress — which is anti-radical — will prevent any legislative hostility to the free-enterprise system and to the upward movement of the markets of the country.

Should the Republicans accomplish a landslide — which seems improbable — the favorable effect on business will be even greater.

But what really will happen? Public opinion polls are not available because nobody has polled every district, and, of course, nationwide polls by party are meaningless in measuring the trend in congressional campaigns.

A BIG MAJORITY in New York City, for instance, may increase the Democratic percentage across the country, but it would not foretell the large number of Republican seats that could be won by narrow margins in various districts composed of small towns and rural areas.

Many people are asking if the Cuban situation will affect the election results. This is doubtful, as the problem has not been clarified and probably will not be by election day.

Resolute action by a president on the international front is of limited popularity, no matter what the circumstances. For, due to economic factors, the people are inherently anti-war. No president could have fought World War I more vigorously or resolutely than Woodrow Wilson did. In October 1918, he had addressed a public appeal to the country to give him a Democratic Congress. He said the Republicans had been "pro-war but anti-administration." He warned that the rest of the world would regard a defeat of the Democratic party in Congress as "a repudiation of my leadership." He argued that, through a victory of his party, he could "continue to be the unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad."

Yet, on Nov. 5, 1918 — when the war was in the critical days of its final stage and victory seemed to be in sight — the American people defeated the Democratic party, which had a majority in both houses of Congress. The Republicans gained 21 seats in the House and 6 seats in the Senate to wrest control from the Democrats in both houses.

BUT THE VOTERS were really anti-war and resented the disruption of American economic life by a war 3,000 miles away from the United States. The same thing happened in 1946, when the voters showed their resentment over economic conditions growing out of World War II.

Though President Truman had successfully steered the country to a victorious conclusion of the war, the Democratic party was defeated and the Republicans took over control of both houses.

Somewhat the same feeling was revealed over the Korean War, when the Democrats in 1950 lost seats in both houses.

Many observers have felt that in 1952 the Korean War was really an issue and helped produce a Republican presidential and congressional victory. Anti-war feeling, incidentally, does not necessarily reflect a point of view on the international issues themselves, but is largely the result of economic disruption and discontent.

Today, America's relations with the Soviet Union are tense. But if President Kennedy emerges as a peacemaker and were himself running for office, it would help the Democratic cause. A congressional election in which international questions are not clear cut, while domestic issues have been producing widespread discontent, could make the presidential influence quite incidental. Pocketbook issues, therefore, are paramount. In a disturbed economic situation, the disgruntled citizens usually vote against the party in power and blame it for the nation's ills.

ECONOMIC DISCONTENT is, therefore, the key factor today. Because economic conditions are spotty and not uniformly good or bad throughout the country, the impact on this congressional election does not permit of any conclusion in advance, except that the election will be close.

A gain on the Republican side would not be surprising, whereas a Democratic gain would, indeed, be very surprising and could prove a disturbing factor in the business world. The chances are the status quo in the relative position of the parties in Congress will be maintained.

35 YEARS AGO — Rev. George D. Keister, pastor of the English Lutheran church at Marysville has accepted a call to the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church here and will move to Salem about Dec. 1.

Richard Nixon Is Needed

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In their demands for action against the Soviets so many weeks before the President acted, Republican leaders demonstrated the great value of a two-party system. And the timing of the President's decision was to some extent designed to take from Republican candidates an issue of great importance.

He could have made his demands and have instituted a quarantine just as easily and more usefully at least two months ago. But his travels on his campaign tour brought him into close contact with what people were thinking. In effect, they told him to go back to Washington and do something.

ONE OF THE MOST articulate as well as the best informed Republicans on the Soviets and Castro is Richard Nixon, now running for governor in California.

Others who demaded action were William E. Miller, Barry Goldwater and Bob Wilson, chairman respectively of the three major groups of the Republican party — the National Committee, the Senatorial Campaign Committee, and the Congressional Committee.

There also were Sen. Everett Dirksen and Rep. Charles Halleck who urged and secured the passage in September on the congressional resolution mentioned by the President in his announcement on Oct. 22.

Thus, the President was not only assured of support for his action but reminded of the necessity for firm action.

Nixon met the President at the White House on April 20, 1961, the day after the disaster at the Bay of Pigs. He told Mr. Kennedy that he would support action if it were made and advised that steps were necessary to prevent a Communist beachhead in Cuba.

In September 1962 Nixon interrupted his campaign for governor to make a statement which in the light of events since indicated great foresight and knowledge.

He called for action at that time against the Soviet buildup. He stated that the 5,000 Soviet troops who had been sent to Cuba constituted a clear and present threat to the United States and that the arms they had could not be "brushed off" as merely defensive. He cited authority for this opinion.

THEN HE ADDED that the President should decide that "the flow of arms into Cuba must be stopped by whatever means are necessary. . . . To put it in one word, the Castro - Communist - Soviet regime must be quarantined."

Then he pledged his full support as a leader in the Republican party for "whatever action President Kennedy decides is necessary to quarantine Castro and Communism in Cuba." This was more than four weeks before the President acted.

Nixon was speaking from very intimate knowledge of Soviet practices and of Castro himself. For when Cuba came to the United States shortly after he gained power in Cuba, Nixon as vice president had a three-hour talk with the Cuban dictator. At that time he reported to President Eisenhower that Castro was either incredibly naive or Communist oriented.

This sort of foresight and intimate knowledge would be invaluable in one of the highest offices of the nation, the governorship of the most populous state.

For while members of Congress are closer to the making of national policy, the governors of the major states are most important in the nation's affairs—governors of states such as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and California.

These governors are not only close to the vital areas which would be involved in international policy. They are also close to the industrial means of national defense.

WITH GOVERNORS such as Rockefeller in New York, Scrantom in Pennsylvania, Rhodes in Ohio, Romney in Michigan and Nixon in California, the nation can be assured not only of bi-partisan unity in a crisis but strong two-party leadership in shaping national policy.

This need is especially important in the case of Nixon in California. For no other individual in the Republican party except Gen. Eisenhower has had so much experience in dealing with Communism over the world and at home and has had such firm and consistent views toward its containment.

This is written from a perspective 3,000 miles from California. It is, I feel sure, in line with what most of the 34 million voters, who preferred Nixon in 1960, believe.

While the voters of California must make the decision as to whether they will keep Nixon in public life, they will realize that their governorship is a matter of not only state concern but of national need in the critical years ahead.

Of Interest to Farmers

PORK CHOP, HAM OUTLOOK—For two years hog production has held relatively steady. Prices have crept slowly upward and now are near their peak for 1962. Newschart shows how prices react to increases or decreases in production. Forecast is that pork and its related hog products will cost about the same during 1963 as they did this year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of fresh vegetables this fall is down materially from a year ago and prices are expected to average significantly higher than in the fall of 1961.

The Agriculture Department says consumer demand for fresh vegetables continued strong during 1962. During the winter and spring of 1962 production was moderately smaller and prices to growers averaged materially above a year earlier.

During this past summer, both production and prices were near that of a year earlier, but this fall production turned down and prices are expected to move upward, compared with a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says a poultry disease causing losses of more than $100 million annually can be controlled.

This disease, known as chronic respiratory disease in chickens and infectious sinusitis or airsacculitis in turkeys, is caused by the organism Mycoplasma gallisepticum.

A department scientist, Dr. O. L. Osteen, outlines some of the steps that should be taken to control the disease:

Establish and maintain proper sanitary procedures on the poultry farm. These include isolating the poultry house, disinfecting footwear of everyone entering the poultry house, disinfecting equipment before using it around the flock, and limiting the use, especially for broilers, of life-virus vaccines to combat other respiratory diseases.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An experimental camera that can propel itself through underground drainage lines on farms to locate clogged tiles has been devised by an Agriculture Department engineer.

The camera, designed as a research tool by Hollis Shull of the department's research service at Brawley, Calif., can be used to inspect more tile than is possible when a random line is dug up and examined.

Studies show that the device can help farmers find clogged spots in their drainage systems without the expense of excavating the lines.

Hearing Scheduled on Vacating Road Section

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday viewed Township Road 916 in Liverpool and Madison Townships and set a hearing for next Thursday at 2 p.m. for vacation of a segment not used after the road had been straightened.

In other business they hired Charles G. Spriggs, Wellsville RD as bus driver for the Retarded School. He succeeds Dan Saling of Lisbon RD who resigned.

They also approved the transfer of funds in the support division and juvenile court.

The commissioners' next meeting will be Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday the Court-house will close a half day for election.

YOUTH GETS DETENTION

LISBON — A 15-year-old Wellsville youth was given five days in detention at the county jail at a hearing before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin Thursday after he was found guilty of breaking and entering the Garfield Elementary School in Garfield on three occasions. He was cited by Juvenile Officer James Miller.

Nielsen TV Rating To Be Released Soon

NEW YORK (AP)—Next Tuesday may be election day for the nation's millions, but for hundreds of people in television it will be D—for decision—day.

That's when the mid-October Nielsen ratings will be released. And whether you approve or believe in the ratings system or not, the fate of some shows rest on the report because it is the yardstick of television success or failure.

The first fall Nielsens, two weeks ago, showed that, this year, comedy is king. The top-rated shows were largely in that category — "The Lucy Show," "The Andy Griffith Show," "The Danny Thomas Show," "Beverly Hillsbillies," and "Hazel" were all up in the top 10.

Some shows for which high hopes were held have not fared well.

One big CBS disappointment has been its experimental hour-long comedy, "Fair Exchange," which the critics liked, but which has not picked up as large an audience as was hoped. CBS, however, likes the show, expects the audience will pick up as more people discover it.

NBC is definitely unhappy about its "Saints and Sinners," an adventure anthology in a newspaper setting. The show is in an impossible position—opposite CBS' Lucy and Danny Thomas, a spot in which any show would have sticky going.

It is happy with its "Virginian," competing eye-to-eye for audiences with ABC's "Wagon Train," which has been at the top of the popularity lists for several seasons.

ABC has not made the anticipated splash with its two war stories. Maybe it was a bad year to revive World War II when people have very real worries about another conflict. And its Roy Rogers-Dale Evans variety hour on Saturday, in preliminary reports, seems in a fatal squeeze between Jackie Gleason and "Sam Benedict."

Sunday — "Twentieth Century,"

CBS, 6:30 p.m.—study of Red espionage in West Germany; Ed Sullivan Show, CBS, 8-9—salute to composer Richard Rodgers; "The Shadowed Affair," NBC, 10-11 — Greer Garson and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in a drama of marital tringle.

March 30, proclaimed as Doctor's Day, is the anniversary of the first use of ether as an anesthetic.

Don't let anybody tell you milk isn't necessary on Sundays!

Your family can raid the refrigerator on Saturday night and leave you in a fix for the weekend.

Milk can be spilled. Unexpected guests can drop in with youngsters.

And you can just plain forget. Nobody's perfect.

If you need milk for your children on Sunday, you need it, and you have a right to get it when you run out.

But they're trying to take that right away from you by dragging out Ohio's 131-year-old Blue Law and telling you it forbids milk and bread sales on Sundays because they're not "necessary". Where's all this pressure coming from? From the merchants who don't operate on Sundays and would like to eliminate the small food and dairy stores that do.

Low-powered beer can be sold on Sunday—there's no legal question about that. But they're closing dairy stores in Ohio right now. If the wave of closings hasn't reached your community yet, you can look for it soon.

Ohio's housewives and mothers can do something to stop them at the polls next Tuesday.

If you want to be able to keep on getting fresh milk and food items when you run out, you'll have to guarantee that right by voting YES for the Sunday Necessities Amendment.

Vote YES for honest Sundays. Vote YES for Issue #1.

We Are CONFUSED

How Newspapers, like those of Brush-Moore, can endorse a Candidate that goes to Congress, who talks, and votes, just opposite on Legislation, that the Newspapers Canned Editorials advocate? Or is it done in return for personal favors, that they are so willing to help push our country down the road to Socialism? We are asking YOU.

Give serious consideration and thought to the above statements.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It's November. And in many a local Church it's time to think about the budget for another year.

This is cause for being thankful. Really it is!

For aren't there many places in this world where men haven't any opportunity to support their Church... or any Church to support if they had opportunity?

And aren't there many places where men are compelled to work for causes they do not believe in... instead of free to work for a cause in which they do believe?

Frankly, much of the responsibility for keeping our land and our people what we want them to be rests with our Churches.

So let's rejoice in that happy American tradition — the Church budget.

And, in keeping with another fine tradition of our people, let's roll up our sleeves and help!

Inspection

at the United Nations on a plan to permit the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships.

However, the President spoke of the need for international inspection in a broader context. He em- phasized that the chief U.S. con- cern was verification of removal of all offensive weapons from Cu- ban territory.

The other major inspection problem, that of verifying the dis- mantling of bases and other So- viet offensive weapons in Cuba, is assumed here to be a major topic of the Havana discussions deputy premier.

Mikoyan flew to Cuba Friday between Castro and Anastas I. Mi- koyan, the Soviet Union's first after meeting Thursday night with U.S. representatives in New York.

According to information in Washington, Mikoyan did not spell out his precise mission to Castro in his New York discussions.

Before leaving for Havana, Mi- koyan endorsed Castro's demand that the United States evacuate its Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba.

The United States has brushed aside Castro's demands as irrel- evant to the Kennedy-Khrushchev missile settlement. This U.S. view is understood to have been made clear to Mikoyan.

In speeches, Castro has de- clared he will never accept for- eign inspection to verify removal of Soviet missiles. Inspection was part of the U.S.-Soviet agreement last weekend when Khrushchev ordered the missile bases dis- mantled.

It was believed Mikoyan would seek to persuade Castro to accept international verification.

The President did not go into detail on any of those problems Friday night. After reporting the government's conclusion that the missiles are being dismantled and crated, he said: "The United States intends to follow closely the completion of this work through a variety of means, including aerial surveillance, until such time as an equally satisfactory international means of verification is effected."

He said continuation of sea and air surveillance "until the threat to peace posed by these offensive weapons is gone, is in keeping with our pledge to secure their withdrawal or elimination from this hemisphere."

It is also in keeping with a resolution adopted at the outset of the Cuban crisis by the Or- ganization of American States and with the Khrushchev agreement, Kennedy added.

"Progress is now being made toward the restoration of peace in the Caribbean," he summed up, "and it is our firm hope and purpose that this progress shall go forward. We will continue to keep the American people informed on this vital matter."

Kennedy said the reconnais- sance photos showing dismantling of the missile bases would be made available today.

In other development: The Organization of American States announced it would hold a special session Monday to weigh means of coordinating military and other aid for hemispheric defense against Cuba.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, campaigning for re- publicans in Baltimore, again urged Americans to stand behind Kennedy in the Cuban situation.

In Little Rock, Ark., Democratic Sens. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma said Friday night the United States should pursue any course, including invasion, to make sure the Soviet missiles are removed from Cuba.

Yemen, Saudi Arabia Stiffen For Showdown

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Re- volutionary Yemen massed land, sea and air forces against Saudi Arabia today. The Egypt-backed republican government talked grimly of a showdown with its monarchist neighbor.

San'a radio in Yemen's remote capital quoted leaders of the 36-day-old revolutionary regime in stormy challenges to Saudi Arabi- an King Saud and Jordanian King Hussein, warning the former of imminent attack if royalist mili- tary forays from across the Ara- bia border continue.

Yemeni Vice Premier and For- eign Minister Abdul Rahman al- Baydany charged that 5,000 Ara- bian and Jordanian troops had tried to invade Yemen in the last two days. His regime was acting now only in self defense, he said.

Saud and Hussein have cham- pioned the cause of the deposed Yemeni king, Imam Mohammed al-Badr, providing him with mili- tary support in his campaign to topple the revolutionary regime. The royalists claim victories in northern Yemen.

Baydany said the government armies had started marching to the north and the navy was sail- ing northward in the Red Sea from the modern port of Hodeida. The Yemeni air force—believed including Soviet-built fighters pro- vided by the United Arab Repub- lic—was ready, Baydany said, to set up a "flaming air belt" along the frontier.

Revolutionary Prime Minister Abdullah Sallal, leader of the Sep- tember coup d'etat against the king, said his armed forces were ready "to teach the aggressors an unforgettable lesson." His statements were relayed by Cairo radio.

The military buildup brought the danger of a large-scale con- frontation in battle between the two great antagonistic forces in the Arab world, the monarchists led by Saud and Hussein, and the republicans who look to Egypt's President Nasser for guidance and material support.

Nasser has reportedly supplied as many as 1,000 men, plus arms air and naval units to bolster Sal- lal's regime. Sallal, for his part, has stated publicly his desire eventually to merge with Egypt in an expanded United Arab Re- public.

Returned To Jail

All four men were returned to Mahoning County jail in lieu of payment of bond. Mahoning au- thorities said all but Dan Leyman, a parole violator, will be eligible for release if bonds are posted.

The elder Leyman was released from the Ohio Penitentiary three months ago after he served eight years of a maximum 35 - year term for breaking and en- tering and auto theft. He had not been making required visits to his parole officer.

He disappeared from his home Oct. 20 and lived with only scant food and shelter in the woods north of Salem. Four days later, weak and lean from hunger, he submitted easily to arrest by state highway patrolmen in south- west Mahoning County.

He slipped again from law au- thorities Oct. 29 when two Ma- honing deputies, now under sus- pension for laxity, removed his handcuffs at his home where he asked to go to get clothing and to show the men a hidden gun. After a leap from a window, he fled and was re-captured by Salem police the next morning at the Old Reliable Drive-In restaurant on E. State St.

Officials Kept Feverish Pace for Days Before Cuban Decision

'Nightmare Week': Race Against Time

EDITOR'S NOTE—This third article of Relman Morin's five-part series on the Cuban crisis describes the U. S. military buildup and total secrecy that was maintained.

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Nightmare week" in Washington, beginning Oct. 15, was a race against the clock.

With unbelievable speed, the Russians were building missile bases in Cuba. Mobile, medium-range weapons, already in position, could reach 22 bases of the Strategic Air Command, the nuclear striking force on American soil. How soon would they be operational?

One photograph of a site near Guanajay, Cuba, shows three large bulldozer scars in the ground. But nothing else. Not even a stick. On the same site, photographed five days later, there are buildings, revetments, erectors, tents, vehicles.

This is for the intermediate missile. Range—2,000 miles. How can it be defanged?

On Saturday night, Oct. 20, Mrs. Dean Rusk, wife of the secretary of state, brought a carton of soup to his office. It was the nearest thing to a home-cooked meal he had tasted since "nightmare week" began.

An official told his secretary, as he left his office, "I'm just going down the hall." She didn't see him again for three days.

As they attacked the central problem—basically the problem of how much time was left—President Kennedy and his team had two great advantages.

One was military. In a relatively short time, the Defense Department assembled and coordinated land, sea and air forces for a big operation. Obviously, they were in a state of readiness.

For one thing, some of the machinery put in operation for the Berlin crisis last year was still working. For example, the Reserve fleet destroyers, put into active status for Berlin, were still in operation. Duty was extended for Navy personnel, so that the usual high manpower loss was reduced.

Further, the Navy and Marine Corps months ago set up the plan for the annual training exercise in Puerto Rico. It rejoined in the name Phibriglex — Amphibious Brigade Landing Exercise.

As the Cuban crisis began to boil, the ships and Marine units assigned to this exercise already were concentrated in the Caribbean. The commander was a Spanish-speaking native of Puerto Rico, Vice Admiral Horacio Rivero.

In short order, 6,000 more Marines were flown to the East Coast from Camp Pendleton, Calif. A supersonic striking force, the 19th Air Force—which was sent to Lebanon in that crisis in 1958—quickly came on the scene.

Thus, in a military sense, the race against time was not so desperate.

Kennedy's other advantage, visible in the conference rooms where the quarantine decision finally was hammered out, was that he had a close-knit team.

The Bay of Pigs, naturally, is still an aching contusion in Washington memories. That was the scene of the abortive Cuban invasion, April 17, 1961.

Nevertheless, in describing the conference machinery, one of the central figures harked back to the Bay of Pigs.

"We were in office only a little over three months when that one came along," he said. "We didn't know each other very well. The President had no clear sense of what weight to put on what each of us said at that time. This time he did. And each of us had a better sense of what was moving the other."

They examined contingencies, as well as the alternative action courses. They tried to envision everything that could go wrong. At one time, until further photographic evidence dispelled all doubt, they even considered the possibility that the Soviet installations in Cuba might be a colossal hoax.

Secretary Dean Rusk presided at the meetings at the State Department, which preceded those with Kennedy at the White House.

From the first, Rusk opposed invasion. He advocated a choice of action short of a maximum use of force. The eventual decision, for a blockade, was in line with what he wanted.

Along with speed, the need for total secrecy was of paramount importance. More often than not in Washington, the official secret has the life-expectancy of a fruit fly, say 24 hours. But in this case, the day and night conferences, the comings and goings, the feverish evaluation of new photo evidence, the troop orders—one of the biggest secrets in American history stayed secret.

Officials used side doors and private elevators. They stopped signing the entry-registers for after-hour callers in security buildings.

Kennedy and Rusk in particular contributed to the smoke screen thrown over the deliberations.

The President left Washington to make political speeches during "nightmare week." In New Haven, Conn., he cracked jokes about "my fellow Elms." He looked like a man having fun as he blasted the Republicans.

Rusk entertained the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, at dinner in the State Department. (A decision-making meeting was taking place in the room below at the same time.) And he saw a number of foreign dignitaries, including the crown prince of Libya.

It was the week of the ticking clock, the race against time and the Russians.

Potters' Power Upsets Quakers 20-8 In 'Annual Clash

Beery Scores TD; Columbiana Romps Over Lisbon 40-0

By MARK W. MILLER

A fired-up East Liverpool football team upset Salem 20-8 in the 47th annual clash between the two county schools at Reilly Stadium last night. It was the last home appearance of the season for the Quakers.

Aside from the fourth period rally by Salem when it scored its TD, East Liverpool dominated the contest with a powerful ground game.

On occasions Coach Robert Hedmond's Potters mixed in a pass to keep the Quakers' defensive unit honest.

Coach Blaine Morton's Salem aggregation showed some improvement in its tackling, but the squad failed to stop the East Liverpool option or off-tackle power plays.

The Potters picked up 260 yards on the ground and made 14 first downs. Salem, held to 81 yards a week ago in an 18-6 loss to Boardman, made only 100 yards rushing against East Liverpool.

VERSATILE BILL BEERY, Salem's three-year veteran, scored for the Red and Black when he faked beautifully on the option series and raced seven yards around his own right end into paydirt.

A personal foul was called on East Liverpool during a Salem attempted punt return in the fourth stanza, to set up the TD for the Mortonmen at the visitors' 31-yard line.

The Quakers drove the distance in eight plays for the tally. Halfbacks Dave Capel and Dave Taus, who returned to the lineup for the first time in three weeks since being injured, shared the ball-carrying duties.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak for the Potters who are now 2-4 for the season. The Quakers dropped their fourth start in nine contests.

Salem will finish up the season at Dover next Friday. They suffered a 30-6 loss at the hands of the Tornadoes last year.

An intercepted pass midway through the first quarter last night almost gave East Liverpool a TD, but the river town crew lost their chance when Salem's Tad Boushall fell on a Chuck Baker fumble on the Quakers' 25.

WITH A MINUTE remaining in the initial period Salem needed a yard to make a first down on its own 34. Fullback George Begalla tried a power play and was stopped inches short.

East Liverpool took over on downs and in three plays marched to the Salem 15 to close out the stanza.

Senior fullback Len Oliver, a 192-pound athlete, put East Liverpool in front 6-0 with a one-yard plunge, 1:17 into the second session.

Two other Potters' TD drives were halted in the second period. The winners were on Salem's 30 as the half ended.

Midway into the second frame Beery intercepted a Baker pass on his own 10. He eluded a few East Liverpool tacklers, shook off three more, criss-crossed the field and zig zagged down the sidelines, almost breaking into the clear before he was caught from behind and dropped at the Salem 38.

East Liverpool took the second half kickoff and went 64 yards in 19 plays for touchdown No. 2. Quarterback Baker mixed his plays to perfection during the drive.

The Potters used all but 2:57 of the third session, and made five first downs on their way to the six more points.

FOLLOWING its touchdown, Salem tried an inside kickoff and the tactic almost worked. Alternating tackle-fullback George Begalla booted the pigskin nine yards into the air and a Salem lineman caught the football at the Quakers' 49 and was dropped on the East Liverpool 45.

The officials awarded the football to the Potters. To gain possession, the kicking team must first boot the pigskin 10 yards or more. The Quakers missed by the margin of one yard.

East Liverpool took over on Salem's 49 and traveled the distance in 13 plays, with halfback Bob Bowyer plunging one yard for a touchdown, with just a second left in the game.

Bowyer was the workhorse of the contest. He carried the football 17 times and gained 62 yards. Capel picked up 48 yards in 12 rushes for Salem.

East Liverpool increased its margin in the county series, and now leads 25-20-2. Last year Salem whipped the Potters 37-22.

THE RETURN of Taus, Ron

Evans and Howard Lambert to the lineup gave Salem some extra strength.

Lambert was in on a dozen tackles. Sophomore end Mike Joseph, who caught one of Salem's two completed passes for 11 yards, did a commendable job defensively.

Begalla was probably in on half of the tackles made by the Quakers' defensive unit. He also picked up 15 yards in eight rushes.

The Quakers were held to 33 rushing plays by the determined Potters. Last week Boardman limited the Red and Black to 31 running plays.

East Liverpool suffering one of the worst seasons in the history of the school probably turned in their finest performance of the year last night.

Green Bay Whipped Chicago 49-0 Earlier

Bears Entertain Packers Sunday; Hornung May Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It figures, of course, that someone is going to beat the Green Bay Packers this season. After all, the National Football League hasn't had an undefeated team since the Chicago Bears of 1942.

It is, however, something like putting the bell on the cat.

The Chicago Bears (4-3) are going to make the big try Sunday. They're full of high hopes, have a revenge motive going for them and will be playing at home.

But it'll be double tough. One reason is Paul Hornung, the Packers' all-purpose back who has led the league in scoring for the past three seasons. He's missed almost three full games with a knee injury, but gives himself a 50-50 chance to return Sunday. Even missing their ace, the Packers kept right on rolling to their presiding 7-0 record.

Then, too, the defending league champions smothered the Bears 49-0 in their first meeting this season, which accounts for the Chicago revenge motive. It's heightened by the fact the Bears haven't beaten their old rivals since the 1960 opener.

While Green Bay is threatening to run off and hide from the rest of the Western Division, the East developed into a wide-open affair last week when the New York Giants knocked off previously unbeaten Washington 49-34 on Y. A. Tittle's seven touchdown passes.

At least five teams now have some hopes of gaining the Eastern title, even St. Louis (2-4-1) and Pittsburgh (3-4).

St. Louis, however, has shown itself to be vulnerable to a passing attack and goes against the Giants (5-2).

The clash between Dallas (3-3-1) and Washington (4-1-2) could be the key to the East. A Dallas victory opens it up even more. It has to be a pick 'em affair, since the two teams scrambled to a 35-35 tie in their first game this season.

Cleveland (4-3), in third place in the East, goes against Philadelphia's disappointing Eagles (1-6). Philadelphia's only victory came at the expense of the Browns.

Detroit (5-2), the No. 2 team in the West, takes its stern defense to Los Angeles (1-6), while Minnesota (2-5) visits Pittsburgh and Baltimore (3-4) goes to San Francisco (3-4) in other games.

Miami Rallies To Trim Kentucky 25-17

Mississippi Battles LSU Tonight; SMU Faces Texas

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Louisiana State and Mississippi, a couple of terrors from the Old South, tangle tonight with national rankings and bowl bids adding spice to the historic rivalry.

The Orange and Sugar Bowls are almost certain to scramble for the winner, who also could move into the top three should North-western, Alabama or Southern California falter today.

There's only an outside chance, however, that the outcome of the clash between fourth-ranked LSU and sixth-ranked Mississippi will have much bearing on the Southeastern Conference standings, except maybe for second place.

For either to finish atop the conference standings, someone else must beat mighty Alabama, 4-0 in the conference and 5-0 over-all going into today's game with Mississippi State. Should 'Bama win 'em all, and they'll be favored all the way, they'll get the spot since they play more conference games than either LSU or Mississippi.

The Tigers from Baton Rouge are 5-0-1 for the season; Mississippi is 5-0. Each is 3-0 in the league. Their only common opponent was Kentucky, vanquished by Mississippi 14-0 and beaten by LSU 7-0.

LSU is a three-point favorite in the only top-ranked night game on the schedule.

Wiry George Mira passed for two touchdowns, scored another and set up the eventual winner in leading Miami from behind a 17-6 deficit to a 25-17 victory over Kentucky Friday night. In the only other major Friday game, Richmond rallied for two last quarter touchdowns and a 17-14 edge over George Washington.

Southern California, ranked third and sporting a 5-0 record, took on No. 9 Washington, 4-0-2.

Salineville And Chester Tie 0-0

Salineville High School finished up its football season with a 0-0 tie at Chester, W. Va., last night.

The Indians threatened in the first quarter when Eddie Jones dashed 63 yards to the Chester 17.

A few plays later the Hosts recovered a Salineville fumble on their own four-yard line.

Chester had a drive stopped by a fumble on the Indians' 25 in the final frame.

It was the second time this season that Salineville had played to a scoreless tie. Wayne Local battled to a 0-0 deadlock with the Indians Sept. 29.

Salineville ended the campaign with a 3-3-2 record.

The Indians picked up 132 yards rushing, and 11 first downs against Chester. Salineville also tumbled the pigskin five times.

Ward Accounts for 3 Clipper Tallies

By LYNN BROWNE

In a game just as lopsided as the score indicates, the Columbiana Clippers notched their seventh victory in eight outings by dumping the Lisbon Blue Devils 40-0 Friday night at Lisbon's War Memorial Stadium.

Taking advantage of the hosts' apparent lack of defensive desire, Columbiana tallied once in the initial stanza, three more times in the second canto and once again in the final period.

THE CLIPPERS, led by fullback Dale Murphy, a four-year veteran, and halfback Jim Ward, displayed a powerful ground attack and took to the air lanes with success on several occasions.

Coach Bud Bucher's county seat aggregation appeared as let-down and dejected as they did in their 13-6 loss to the invading Leetonia Bears last Friday.

The loss was Lisbon's third in a row and fourth in nine outings and gives them a 3-4 mark in Tri-County loop play.

WARD WAS THE BIG scorer of the evening as he scampered for three TD's on runs of 3, 60 and 15 yards. Murphy and Rick Perrin, the Clippers' quarterback, accounted for the other two scores.

LISBON TOOK THE opening kickoff but picked up only four yards in three downs and punted to the Columbiana 33-yard line. Just 10 plays later Ward slipped off the right side of the line and dashed in from the four for the first TD. Murphy plowed over for the points after-touchdown and the visitors led 8-0 with 6:13 left in the period.

Lisbon took the return kickoff but managed to retain possession for only one series of downs before being forced to punt to the Clips' eight.

Columbiana took over and marched to the county-seaters' one with Murphy toting the ball over for the score. Featured in the drive was an 18-yard jaunt by Ward and a Perrin-to-Murphy pass play that was good for 17 yards. Perrin passed to end Fred Gosney for the extra-points and the Clippers were on the right end of a 16-0 score. The drive carried the game into the second canto with the score coming with 9:53 left in the half.

LISBON PUT TOGETHER a sustained drive on the next series as it picked up three first downs in as many plays and marched from its 44 to the winners' 21 before being stalled on a fourth and one situation.

Halfbacks Dave Rose and Tim Bucher and substitute fullback Keith Bouscher all contributed long runs in the Devils' march.

On the fifth play from scrimmage, Ward sliced through the right side of the line, cut left and sprinted from Columbiana's 40 into pay-dirt. Murphy turned left end for the extra-points.

Ward scored again minutes later from the 14. After Lisbon took the kickoff, McPherson hit Bucher with a screen pass but Bucher and teammate Larry Peruchetti collided, causing Bucher to fumble and the Clippers recovered, setting up the score. Murphy once more added the bonus points.

LISBON WAS INSIDE the Columbiana five-yard line when the gun sounded the end of the half and Columbiana entered the dressing room with a comfortable 32-0 margin. The hosts played a somewhat improved game in the second half but failed in attempts to put together a drive long enough to allow them to break into the scoring column.

After a scoreless third period, with 9:16 remaining in the fourth, Perrin skirted his own left end and dashed 18-yards for the final score. Junior halfback Rich Hutton added the extra-points.

LISBON END DAVE McPherson, a junior, was injured early in the game and taken to Salem City Hospital where officials say he may have a possible fractured ankle. He was expected to return home today.

Dave is the brother of quarterback Larry McPherson, who suffered a broken arm in a pre-season scrimmage against Beaver Local last year and was sidelined for the biggest part of the season.

Although the over-all play of the Devils left something to be desired, Coach Bucher did get good performances from several players. Fullback Bouscher, who played his first varsity game as a starter, turned in a tremendous game and along with Bucher and Dave Rose, was an offensive standout. Bouscher replaced Gary Rutter who is out with a bad ankle.

Walter (Bud) Thorne also did a creditable night's work offensively. The lanky end made several fine pass catches. Lisbon will try to get back into the win column next Friday when it travels to Hubbard for the season finale. Columbiana will wind up its season next Friday by hosting the East Palestine Bulldogs.

3-Day Examination Yields Normal Findings

Doctor Says Mays Is Perfectly OK

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Say hey... Willie Mays is okay.

Fears that baseball's highest paid player might be ailing were firmly crushed Friday by Dr. Harold H. Rosenblum, chief of medicine at Mt. Zion Hospital.

After checking the San Francisco Giants' slugger for three days, the physician reported: "Mays had a comprehensive physical examination that included all the routine tests. All yielded normal findings, his condition is perfectly healthy. There is no medical problem whatsoever. His condition is superior to other men his age (31). He is in prime physical condition."

Willie's health became a matter of concern for the National League champions when he collapsed in the dugout at Cincinnati on Sept. 12 and was out of the lineup three days.

Dr. Rosenblum said the collapse was due simply to exhaustion, pointing out, "It was a difficult season and he is aware of his responsibility."

The physician did not rule out possibility of a recurrence, but said, "He should know how to protect himself under similar circumstances."

Mays joined the Giants in 1951 as the effervescent kid who'd hold, "Say hey." Now a mature veteran, he led the majors in homers this past season with 49 and knocked in 144 runs for his career high.

Game Ends In 16-16 Tie

Leetonia, Sebring Battle to Deadlock

Sebring's surprising Trojans, winless in Tri-County League action, battled Leetonia's Bears to a 16-16 tie last night at Leetonia.

Despite never having won a loop fray, Leetonia was the third opponent coach Chet Riffle's squad has battled to a deadlock. The Trojans tied Minerva 14-14 last week while Poland could do no better than a 14-14 tie earlier in the year.

The tie was Leetonia's first of the year and gives the Bears a 3-3-1 league record and a 4-4-1 overall mark.

Sebring opened the scoring in the second period as Fred O'Donnell banged off right tackle for a three-yard score with a pass from Roger Snyder to end Don Wyatt accounting for the bonus points.

Leetonia bounced right back, however, and just minutes later halfback Al Vignon rounded right end and jaunted 18 yards for the touchdown. Leetonia, too, took to the air for the extra points with quarterback Frank Guerrier connecting to end Steve Vrable.

Sebring's second tally came in the third canto on a five-yard sprint by Ken Schneider. A Snyder-Wyatt aerial once again accounted for the bonus points.

Leetonia shoved across the final TD of the game in the fourth. Vignon banged off right tackle, evaded the Sebring deep men and dashed 15-yards into the end zone. The tying points came on a pass from Guerrier to Vrable.

Leetonia will round out its season against host Canfield next week while Sebring will entertain Coach Dave Habberger's Crestview Rebels.

All-American Was Afflicted With Leukemia

Ernie Davis Says He's Ready Physically To Join Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ernie Davis, whose bout with leukemia put him out of the professional football picture here before the season started, says he now feels ready physically and is "itching to join the team."

The former All-America halfback at Syracuse was given the go-ahead to work out Oct. 8, a few days after the Cleveland Browns disclosed that the 22-year-old prize rookie had been afflicted with leukemia.

Doctors said then the disease was in a perfect state of remission, meaning that it had been halted temporarily—which is not uncommon in leukemia cases.

While the team is holding its practice sessions at League Park, Davis jogs around the edge of the field, sometimes breaking into a sprint of 40 to 50 yards, and does calisthenics. Sometimes he stops near the offensive team to listen to the play calling and watch the halfbacks.

Whether he plays is up to Coach Paul Brown, and reports are that the coach is reluctant to put Davis on the team at this time.

Davis has a burning ambition to play with the Browns.

To wear No. 44 for the Browns in National Football League competition is "something I've always wanted to do," he said. "If I don't make the Browns this season, I'll go all out next July."

Boston Meets Buffalo Bills In AFL Game

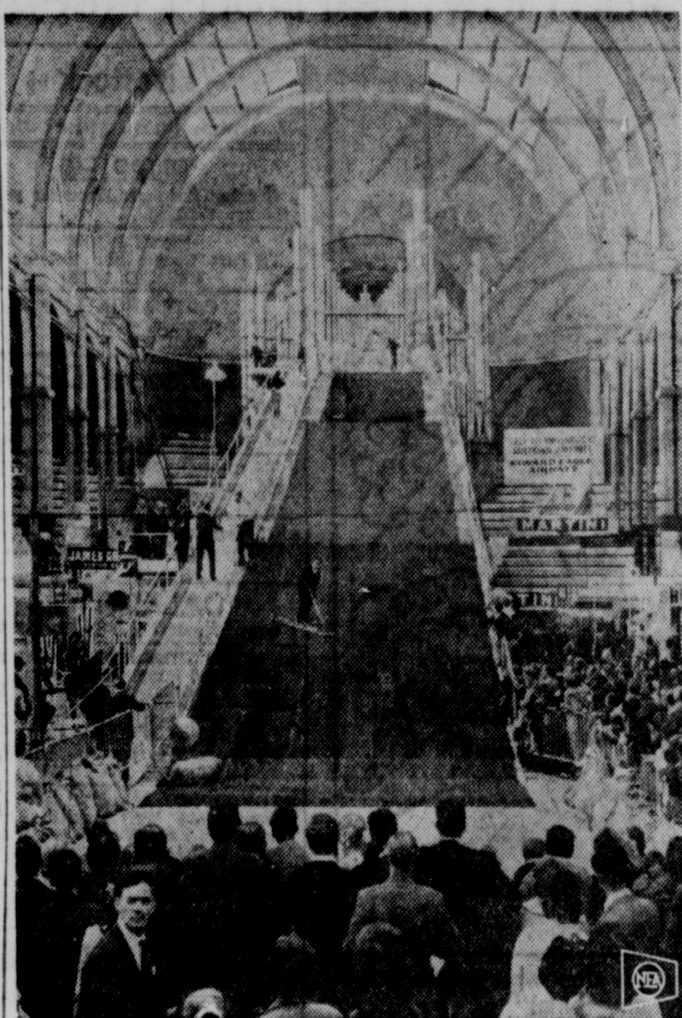

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Boston Patriots, cinderella team of the American Football League, will look to the passing wizardry of veteran quarterback Vito (Babe) Parilli tonight when they collide with the rebounding Buffalo Bills.

The Bills, who flourished in losing their first five games, appear to have found the formula in a pulverizing ground game led by Cookie Gilchrist, a 243-pound blockbusting fullback from the Canadian pro ranks.

The unheralded Patriots lead the Eastern Division with a 5-2 record. The Bills, in third place, are looking for their fourth straight victory.

Buffalo got a boost Friday with word that Jack Kemp, the star quarterback the Bills grabbed from San Diego for $100 in a controversial waiver deal, will suit up for the first time. Kemp has been sidelined with a broken finger on his passing hand.

Buffalo Coach Lou Saban said, however, that he would stick with Warren Rabb as his starter. Rabb sparked in last week's 45-38 upset of Denver.

NOW SKI HERE! — French ski champions flew to London to demonstrate their skill on this indoor run erected at International Winter Sports Exhibition at Alexandra Palace.

ISN'T IT SIGNIFICANT

That The Four Most Influential Daily Papers In The Eighteenth District Have Endorsed Congressman Wayne L. Hays For Re-election

In an Editorial, Monday, October 29th, The Salem News said in part...

Wayne Hays, without question, has been the district's most active legislator in Washington in many years and, because of his seniority and influence, is highly regarded by constituents in both parties. No "yes man," Hays frequently attracts national attention by speaking out bluntly against the administration's wasteful practices in foreign aid.

He has been active on the important foreign affairs committee, was a NATO delegate and has championed many needed projects in his home district, including Salem.

Rep. Hays has succeeded in keeping the Ohio River Improvement Program going, with 19 dams projected for the total length of the Ohio, two of the five completed being in the 18th District. He has helped 18 municipalities obtain federal grants for needed sewage plant improvements and he co-authored the depressed areas legislation which resulted in the establishment of several retraining schools. He also has been active in public works, housing and highway projects.

His was one of the first voices to cry out against Soviet arms shipments to Cuba. He was co-author of the resolution in Congress which called upon the administration to take any necessary action to prevent the military buildup in the Caribbean island from becoming a menace to the United States.

He has proven by his occasional attacks on the actions of fellow Democrats that he has the courage of his own convictions and is an able representative of his home district and taxpayers in general.

Both Rep. Hays and his opponent in the forthcoming election have similar backgrounds. Both are college graduates, both have taught history and both have held elective offices in their home towns, but Congressman Hays' extensive political experience and leadership in national affairs should be sufficient reason for re-election at this critical time in the nation's history.

In an editorial from the Martins Ferry Times Leader, March 30th headed congratulations due Hays, said in part... "We need more Representatives in Washington who put the real interests of the people above political expediency and personal ambition."

RE-ELECT THIS OUTSTANDING CONGRESSMAN.
